“Every piece carries the story of how it was made. You can see the hand in it, in the way the glaze flows and the subtle difference in how each tile catches the light.”

ABOUT

Kelly Wearstler

Kelly Wearstler is an award-winning American designer creating elevated and experiential environments. Through her distinctive multifaceted design approach, she curates a wealth of sensory layered experiences into every space, honoring history, location and architecture while infusing an evocative exploration of materiality, color and form. Wearstler's intuitive juxtapositions of the contemporary and vintage, architectural and organic, and graphic and instinctual, inform and define her transformative worlds within worlds.

A deep affinity for engaging textures and dimensional surfaces is signature to Wearstler's work and to her evolution of tile and stone designs in collaborative partnership with Ann Sacks. Wearstler interprets her iconic graphic motifs and anomalous, organic expressions in ceramic, encaustic, stone mosaic and marble through the indelible precision, high craftsmanship and quality intrinsic to Ann Sacks.

Created in factories as local as Portland, Oregon, and Ojai, California, as well as around the world, this ever-expanding collection of designs provides an exceptional breadth of materiality and exclusive access to a curation of designer styles that evokes the unexpected in the most extraordinary of ways.

MADE Billow

Exclusive to Ann Sacks, MADE Billow channels fluted textiles for a luxe, design-forward statement. Handcrafted of stoneware ceramic in Portland, Oregon, this collaboration with designer Kelly Wearstler pairs structural dimension with a polished finish, creating an expressive contrast of light and shadow.
